COUNT ME OUT

Voters reject criticism of 'worst' council and back continuation of 45-year Labour rule

By Lucy Purdy

LABOUR will stay in control at the helm of Haringey Council after sweeping to victory in last week's elections – despite the Victoria Climbié, Baby Peter and Iceland cash scandals.

Four decades of Labour rule seemed to be hanging by a thread as thousands took to polling booths across the borough last Thursday. But despite several notorious failings, including the tragic death of 17-month-old Peter Connelly while he was on the authority's at-risk register, it was thrown a lifeline by the forgiving electorate.

After it emerged that Labour had a majority of 11 seats over the Liberal Democrats, triumphant leader Claire Kober said residents had "rejected the politics of fear and negativity" put forward by her rivals.

In her victory speech at Alexandra Palace in the early hours of Friday morning, she said: "People have voted in every street, in every ward and I'm delighted that the result is not just a Labour victory but a Labour victory with an increased majority."

"The people of this borough have spoken. They have rejected the kind of party that says Haringey is the worst, the weakest, the downright wrong."

"I'm very grateful to them for giving us your trust, confidence and their votes in unprecedented numbers and I look forward to taking this great borough forward in the next four years. This is the next step in Labour's journey. The job isn't done, we are not complacent. But we know what is good in Haringey and we will take it forward."

Labour eventually won 34 seats to the Lib Dems' 23 after seizing Bounds Green, Noel Park and St Ann's wards, with the knife-edge ward of Harringay only announced later on Friday after several recounts. This result meant Labour increased its majority, which had been 29 to the Lib Dem's 26, a disheartening result for Lib Dem leader Robert Gorrie.

He said: "The local result this evening has been overwhelmed by the voting in the general election and local issues have been pushed aside by difficulties in the national polls. Both Labour and the Tories, and the media that back them, have managed to frighten voters into missing an opportunity to do something different. For us it is clearly a success that in Haringey we remain the only opposition to Labour. Thank you to all our supporters who voted for us and elected our excellent team of councillors who look forward to serving the borough."

Haringey has been led by a Labour administration since the borough was formed in 1965. But a swing of just two seats, or 3.5 per cent, was needed to switch to the Lib Dems this year. The crucial wards turned out to be several in the middle of the borough: Bounds Green and Noel Park in the Hornsey and Wood Green constituency, and St Ann's in Tottenham.

Turnout in the west of the borough, which is dominated by Lib Dem votes, was considerably higher than in the east where many more people vote Labour. It was just 51 per cent in Northumberland Park but 73.5 per cent in Muswell Hill ward.

Result: Labour 34, Lib Dem 23

Penned in and patronised – how the ELECTION night is a long old slog by anyone's standards – hours of waiting about with little or no excitement until the sun starts to come up, by which time you're too tired to remember what excitement means.

Being a reporter at Haringey's election count on Thursday night passed by in even more of a blur of banality than usual, because someone in the council's communications team had decided it was necessary to cage members of the press.

On arrival we were told a media room

By Lucy Purdy

had been set aside just off the Palm Court but that if we wanted to actually see any action in the counting hall, we had to stand in a desolate pen at the back of the drafty room, miles away from anything that was happening.

This grim, metal cage measured eight paces by five and was like the ones used to separate farm animals or warring football hooligans. There were just a couple of scattered chairs and a bin and it seemed to have been designed to be as inhospitable as

Defectors' swings and roundabouts

COUNCILLORS who had jumped ship in a series of high-profile defections in the past four years had mixed fortunes.

Ali Demirei, who resigned from the Lib Dems to join the Haringey Labour Group in June 2008 was re-elected as a councillor in Bounds Green after winning 2,118 votes on the night – 906 more than when he represented the Lib Dems in 2006. He joins Labour colleagues Joanna Christophides and Matt Cooke after saying he believed Labour was the only party with the "vision and policies to improve lives of local people".

But Alan Dobbie, who won Noel Park ward for Labour in 2006 before defecting to become Haringey's first Conservative councillor in seven years, was not re-elected. The former mayor dropped his "stale" party last July, saying Haringey Labour "no longer seems to speak up for the ordinary person".

Another former Haringey mayor, Tottenham Hale councillor Sheik Thompson, failed to get re-elected. He opted to stand as an independent candidate in the ward, saying personal integrity and the best interests of residents had forced his decision after months of dilemma. But he received just 264 votes and Labour won a clean sweep in the ward.

Brian Haley also failed to get re-elected. Haringey's former environment chief resigned from the Labour Party and joined the Lib Dems in January in protest at Haringey being rated London's worst council. He told the Advertiser at the time: "Labour has absolutely no vision of how to lift Haringey out of its current mess. I will join the only party that has the ideas and ability to turn things around." But Mr Haley only got 1,088 votes in St Ann's ward, leaving Labour candidates Nilgun Canver, David Browne and Zena Brabazon to represent the area.

Catherine Harris, former Lib Dem councillor for Noel Park Ward, also crossed the floor to join Labour. She did not stand this year.

Lynne Featherstone MP

LYNNE FEATHERSTONE increased her majority to be convincingly re-elected as MP for Hornsey and Wood Green, pledging to continue her fight to save The Whittington Hospital in her victory speech.

Ms Featherstone stretched her lead over Labour's candidate even further after capturing the seat in 2005 with a 14.6 per cent swing and a majority of 2,395. Her lead is now 6,875 after she won 25,595 votes – a 46.5 per cent slice of the vote share. Labour's Karen Jennings trailed in next with 18,720 votes and Conservative candidate Richard Merrin won 9,174 votes.

Speaking after the results were announced just before 6.30am last Friday, Ms Featherstone said: "It has been a joy and a privilege to have been the MP for Hornsey and Wood Green for the last five years and a joy and a privilege to have been voted for to do so again. It is very heartwarming.

"I fight for local people – that is my unique selling point, if you like.

"And so the fight for the Whittington goes on because warm words before elections aren't really enough."

The 58-year-old had told The Advertiser earlier in the evening that the excitement generated by Lib Dem leader Nick Clegg's appearance in the three live televised debates had filtered down to Haringey.

She said: "We went around the streets and people were talking politics. There was a feeling that politics isn't just something which happens at Westminster.

"All through the campaign I have never seen anything like it. People coming across the street to talk to us, even children coming to talk to us.

"I think in two elections' time we are on the right track, judging by the seven and eight-year-olds we spoke to!"

Turnout in Hornsey and Wood Green was 70.13 per cent.

Both MPs grateful for their poll positions

DAVID LAMMY said he was "genuinely humbled" as he fulfilled the bookies' predictions to romp home in Tottenham with a huge share of votes.

The 37-year-old Labour candidate must have been fairly confident of victory in the seat which has been red since the 1950s and beamed in the early hours on Friday when it was announced he had won 59.3 per cent.

He became MP in Tottenham in a by-election in 2000 and won a 57.9 per cent majority in the 2005 general election, attracting 24,128 votes this time. Lib Dem candidate David Schmitz came a not-so-close second with 7,197 votes and the Conservative Party's Sean Sullivan third with 6,064 votes.

David Lammy MP

Mr Lammy said: "This began for me ten years ago outside my family home in Dongola Road. That the people of Tottenham have given me the biggest majority I have ever had ten years on is amazing. They have said they want someone who can speak up in government for them, to stand up for schools, young people and investment in public services and to stand up to David Cameron.

"I'm also looking forward to working with Haringey Labour leader Claire Kober."

Mr Schmitz then took to the stage to pay tribute to his Lib Dem colleagues and supporters, saying he was pleased with his votes.

He added: "This has been a marvellous experience and I wouldn't have missed it for the world."

Mr Sullivan said: "Thank you to all of those who helped with our campaign. We put a positive and engaging campaign to Labour."

There was also a sharp increase in voting turnout in Tottenham. Some 40,687 residents took to the polls this time around – 59.07 per cent – compared to just 47.8 per cent in 2005.

press' role was marginalised during election night...

possible and encourage us to retreat to the comfort of our designated room, safely out of harm's way and far from the opportunity of speaking to any of the politicians we had come there to report upon, God forbid.

"There are no scoops to be had anyway," one of the senior press officers informed me confidently when I complained.

"Nothing is happening, so don't worry" she added condescendingly before suggesting we wait for the speeches later on.

But election night is not just about who triumphs at the polls. Part of the job of covering it for a local newspaper is to capture the atmosphere on the night; words said in the heat of the moment, political careers launched or ruined in an instant, the glances and glares across piles of ballot slips or the unexpected camaraderie between rival candidates which reminds you that they are human and not just one-dimensional political robots.

As my audacious photographer stood just 2ft outside the pen to grab a candid shot of David Lammy, the Gestapo approached with a stern pen-breach reprimand.

"I'm going to help myself to another cup of disgusting coffee," muttered another disgruntled snapper as he wandered off with his camera pointing toward the floor.

Members of the press are fully briefed on the restrictions of not speaking to the counters and not taking photographs of ballot papers, and so to be treated like small children or terrorists was insulting. We had less freedom than the electoral agents and other hangers-on who were free to roam wherever they liked – and they clearly do have an agenda.

We may as well have steered clear of Ally Pally. Perhaps that's what "communications" and their team would have preferred...

£20k fine for loan shark who preyed on casino addicts

A LOAN shark from Tottenham who preyed on vulnerable gamblers at casinos in central London has been fined and ordered to forfeit £12,200 cash.

Tung Quan Ha, of Dongola Road, pleaded guilty to the charges at Isleworth Crown Court on May 4 when he was also sentenced. He was fined £8,000 and also ordered to pay £12,000 costs following an investigation by the London Trading Standards illegal money lending-team and Haringey Council.

Notebooks detailing illegal lending, £12,200 in cash and gold and silver jewellery worth about £66,000 were found during a search of his home in August last year. He is known to have frequently loitered at London's casinos where he lent money to gamblers when they were at their most vulnerable. It is also thought Tung gambled more than £113,000 at several casinos during the first eight months of 2008.

The 57-year-old lived on benefits and had not declared legitimate earnings for a number of years. He has been ordered to pay the fines and court costs within six months.

London's illegal money-lending team manager Peter Richardson said it was one of the worst cases he had seen.

"To have a loan shark seeking out those already in a vulnerable state through gambling addiction and financial pressures is a terrible situation," he said. "There are a large number of victims in this case who we could not identify or contact however they can be certain that the loans they have do not have to be repaid. If you are a victim, we can still offer you a free support service so please contact us."

Nationally, the Stop Loan Sharks project has so far helped more than 11,500 victims, written off more than £31million of illegal debt, secured more than 60 years of prison sentences and seized £1m cash.

To report a loan shark, call the 24/7 confidential hotline on 0300 555 2222 or text "loan shark + your message" to 60003. Visit www.direct.gov.uk/stoploansharks to find out more.

Fresh blood on the streets – two manhunts after weekend killings

By Lucy Purdy

DETECTIVES in Haringey are hunting for two murder suspects after two young men from the borough died in violent rows over the weekend.

Joseph Hylton, 21, of Umfreville Road, Haringey, was shot dead in broad daylight in Mount Pleasant Road in Tottenham on Friday. Police were called to the junction with Adams Road at about 11.40am after reports of shots being fired and Mr Hylton was declared dead at the scene.

His death is being investigated by Trident, which tackles gun crime within London's black community.

Detective Inspector Steve Horsley said: "We are appealing to anyone who was in or around Mount Pleasant Road, at the Lordship Lane end near Adams Road, at the time of the incident to contact us. We particularly want to hear from anyone who may have seen a number of suspects hanging around, or indeed running away after the incident, between 11.30am and 11.40am on Friday morning."

Anyone with information should call the incident room on 020 8733 4704. No arrests have yet been made.

A second manhunt got under way after Polish-born teenager Marcin Bilaszewski was stabbed near Finsbury Park Underground station. The 19-year-old, who lived in Tottenham, was found near the station at about 11.20pm on Saturday.

He was travelling on the 254 bus between Stamford Hill and Finsbury Park with a group of friends when a row broke out between his friends and another man. Mr Bilaszewski was stabbed, probably on a footway outside the station, after the group got off the bus and the argument escalated.

Mr Bilaszewski is thought to have been protecting his girlfriend, Ania Betlinska, who was celebrating her 18th birthday on the night. A friend of the couple, Dagmara Drzymota, told a newspaper that a man on the bus had started insulting the group "for no reason. She added: "None of us knew him. He seemed to be acting in a disturbed way. I think he was on drugs."

The suspect, a black man, was seen running away from the scene. No arrests have yet been made.

An incident room has been opened by the Homicide and Serious Crime Command. Anyone with information should contact police on 0300 123 1212 or to remain anonymous, or call Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Ally Pally's secrets

ALEXANDRA Palace will host a free open day next week to give local residents the chance to peek behind the scenes.

The palace will open its doors between 10am and 4pm next Saturday to host tours of the BBC studios. Not normally open to the public, numbers are limited and offered on a first-come, first-served basis. There will also be a chance to peek inside the derelict Victorian theatre.

Local community organisations, ranging from a farmers' market to local residents' associations, will be hosting stalls to showcase other activities available in the borough. Call Helen Silver on 020 7861 2412 to find out more.

May the force be with you

HARINGEY will host a display of volunteering policing on Saturday when special constables from Haringey and Enfield combine in a recruitment drive.

As well as patrolling the streets, special constables will be on hand at recruitment stalls from 11.30am–5pm in Wood Green Shopping Centre, Wood Green Library, Tottenham Hale retail park, Crouch End Broadway and Muswell Hill Road.

Haringey's Safer Neighbourhood Chief Inspector Jon Williams said: "The many aspects of volunteering within the Met symbolise the growing partnership between the police and the public. They provide vital support to a whole range of police activities and are imperative to making policing more visible and accessible to the diverse communities of Haringey and Enfield."

Jailed: family of Bulgarian fraudsters

SIX members of a family living in Haringey have been jailed after they were found to have sent criminal proceeds of almost £20,000 to relatives in their native Bulgaria.

The three men and three women were sentenced to between six and 12 months each at Southwark Crown Court on May 4 after pleading guilty to charges of money laundering.

An investigation began when British Transport Police received information about the family's involvement in insurance fraud – using cloned or stolen credit cards to buy car insurance. A search of their house in Warham Road, on the Haringey Ladder, in November and another search in December unearthed piles of cash in different currencies stashed away around the property.

Further investigation revealed they had been transferring thousands of pounds back to Bulgaria despite having no significant income.

Detective Constable Jerry Meek, from BTP's Organised Crime Team, said: "The amounts being sent to Bulgaria didn't marry up to the low-level of income the family members earned from jobs such as cleaning and car washing."

"Georgi Petkov alone had sent over £7,500 to Bulgaria between September 2008 and November 2009 yet in an interview claimed to have only worked for a few days in that time and only earned £15 a day."

His wife, Elena Filipova, had sent more than £1,100 to Bulgaria in that time. Her two previous convictions for pickpocketing in 2008 and 2009 led detectives to believe the money being sent home was the proceeds of theft.

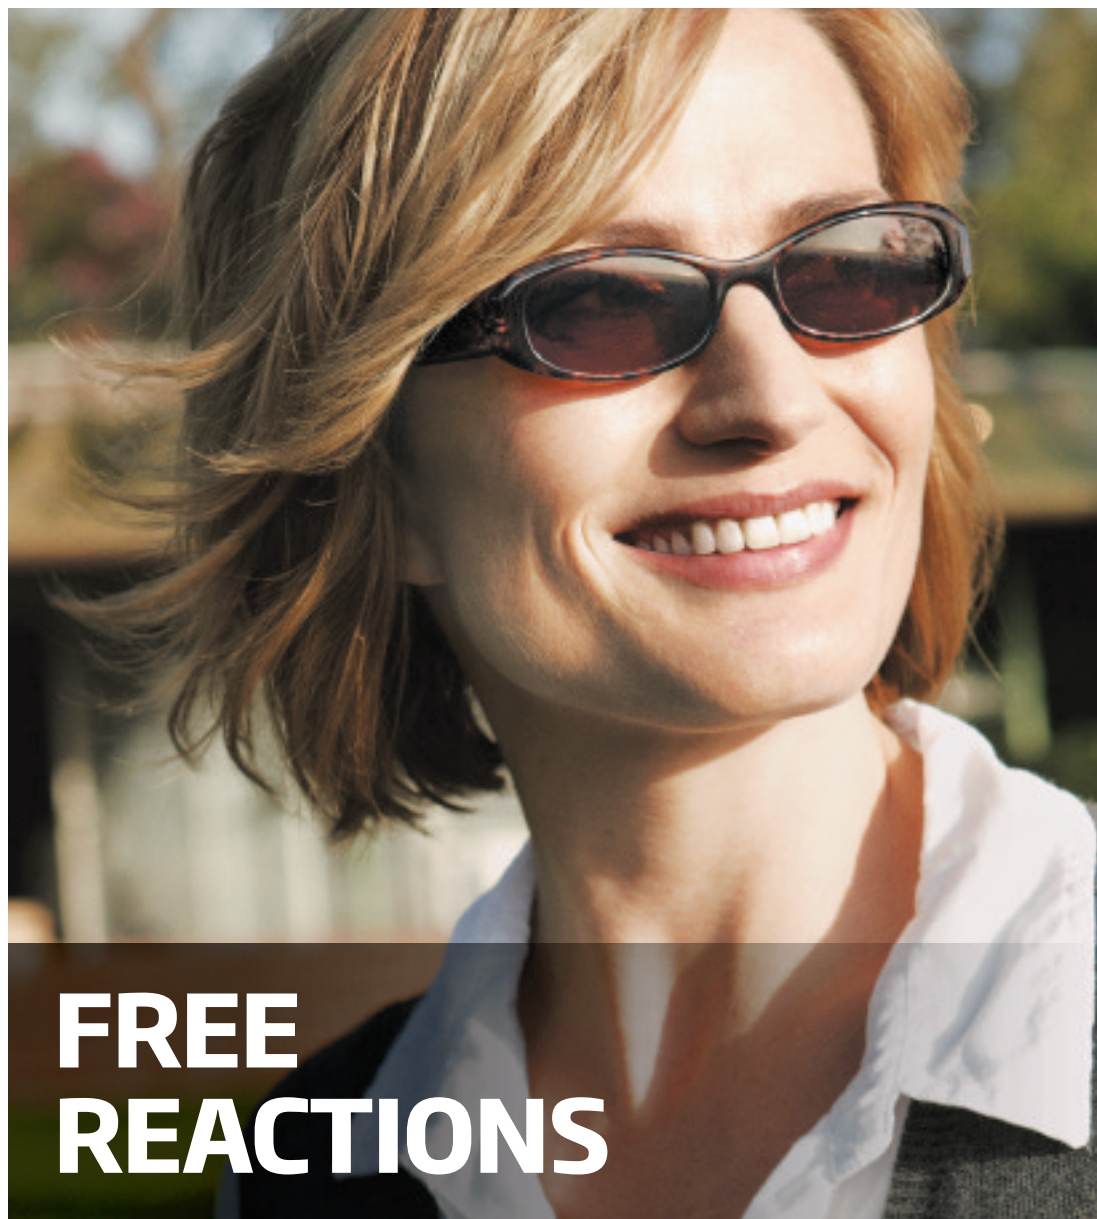

"These six people are part of an organised group who steal and send the profits back to Bulgaria," added DC Meek.

"They were living far beyond their means and couldn't account for the large sums of money they were transferring home."

Those sentenced were 20-year-old Nedka Staneva, sisters 24-year-old Sylviya Filipova and 23-year-old Elena Filipova, Georgi Petkov, 18, and brothers 23-year-old Georgi and Zlato Nikolov, 18,

A total of £19,803 was sent to Bulgaria between July 2008 and November 2009.

A WOMAN from Haringey who survived the 7/7 London bombings has led a fact-finding delegation of Muslim women to the USA. Sajda Mughal and seven other women, including teachers, students and civil servants, visited Washington DC, Chicago and San Francisco to discuss how the countries have progressed since the attacks on the World Trade Center and London's transport network.

Sajda is a project manager at JAN Trust, a charity based in Bedford Road, Wood Green, which works to empower women from ethnic communities in Britain. She left her well-paid job in investment banking to get involved in the charity after being caught up in the rush-hour terror attacks on July 7, 2005.

Sajda, 28, told the Advertiser: "I was on the Piccadilly line that morning and was planning to get off at Bank as normal. Between King's Cross and Russell Square there was a massive bang and the train jerked forward. Those standing up fell over and the lights went off. And then everyone started to panic: people were screaming, shouting and trying to smash the windows, which were unbreakable.

"Eventually we heard police officers shouting that they were coming to rescue us. I came out covered in black smoke and went across the road to McDonald's to clean up. We thought then it was just a derailment."

It later emerged that the bomb had exploded in the first carriage of Sajda's train at 8.50am, about one minute after leaving King's Cross station. The co-ordinated suicide attacks, timed to cause maximum bloodshed and disruption, were carried out by four Muslim men, three of British Pakistani and one of British Jamaican descent, who were angry at Britain's involvement in the Iraq war.

By Lucy Purdy

"To know it was a bomb and a bomb that was planted by Muslim extremists, being a Muslim myself, was very hard to take in and really affected me," Sajda admitted.

"That is the reason I got involved in the charity – because of what happened to me and because there are a handful who have used religion to do these acts.

"Islam doesn't promote that: it is a religion based on peace. So I wanted to make a difference and let people know the real truth."

While in the USA, Sajda and the other members of the delegation met different community groups to understand the interests and concerns of American Muslims and share their experiences as British Muslims.

They also met with Herro Mustafa, a senior adviser on the Middle East to Vice-President Joe Biden.

"Our purpose was to have dialogue with the American audience, both Muslims and non-Muslims," Sajda said.

"We shared our experiences and discussed a number of issues such as the work we do, how we all co-exist in the UK and US and how two identities can fit hand in hand with each other.

"We also discussed how both countries can continue to combat violent extremism in society."

Sajda is currently visiting schools, colleges and other community centres with survivors of genocides and wars around the world, condemning violence and violent extremism.

JAN Trust also aims to combat poverty, discrimination and social exclusion among black, minority ethnic, refugee and asylum women.

Andy Serkis joins The Blockheads for King's Head party

Rhythm pick: Andy Serkis brings Ian Dury to life in Sex & Drugs & Rock & Roll

THERE probably won't be the sex... most certainly not the drugs... but there is 100 per cent guaranteed rock 'n' roll Downstairs at the King's Head this Friday.

The Kalamazoo Klub, the monthly acoustic club held at the Crouch End venue, is 15 years old. To celebrate this milestone the Kalamazoo has achieved something of a coup by announcing that Andy Serkis, Chaz Jankel and John Turnbull will be appearing together live on stage.

A year ago this random-sounding trio would have drawn a few quizzical responses, looks of confusion and little more. Perhaps some would have recognised Jankel and Turnbull as names from Ian Dury's former band, The Blockheads, but wondered what on earth Andy "Golum" Serkis was doing with them.

But since the release of the BAFTA-nominated Sex & Drugs & Rock & Roll – the Ian Dury biopic starring Serkis as a dead ringer for Dury – this trio are hot property and it will be a treat to see the spirit of Dury resurrected off the silver screen in the flesh, live on stage.

They will be joined by China Soul, daughter of screen legend David Soul, guitarist Charlie Smith and house band The Blinking Buzards – back to host the show as they did at the very first Kalamazoo gig in May 1995.

● Tickets cost £12 and the gig starts at 8.30pm. For more details and reservations call the box office on 020 8340 1028.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. # Freddy put into too-sharp focus

Nightmare On Elm Street (15)

Dir: Samuel Bayer
Starring: Jackie Earle Haley, Rooney Mara, Kyle Gallner

IN THE 1980s, the biggest thrill for a barely teen was watching a "Freddy" video with some cheap cider.

The first Elm Street was, of course, the scariest and best – Wes Craven is a twisted genius creating one of the most potent screen villains in his razor-gloved, fedora-wearing phantom terrorising dreams – but part three was sadistically deranged before Krueger became a wise-cracking parody of his earlier self in subsequent naff sequels.

I lost interest after the third film as girls became more distracting than ghouls and laughed in derision when I first heard they were remaking the original – why bother? But, settling down to watch old freaky face slash his first high school student, I felt weirdly nostalgic and spent the next 100 minutes reliving some teenage kicks in this grisly guilty pleasure.

With only a few tweaks to the plot – Freddy is now a child abuser, not a child murderer – it's the same premise of a man who was torched to death by enraged parents coming back to stalk the dreams of their children and kill them for real in their sleep. Once again effective use is made of the fact we're never quite sure if the dreamer is awake or asleep and the thrills and spills are suitably bloody and imaginative to keep adrenalin in overdrive.

But – and it's a big but – little is added to the original while two major elements have been taken away: Wes Craven and Robert Englund. The former is the horror maestro who made the original so unforgettable because he understood the genre's workings so well.

Krueger is a shadowy figure because to repeatedly force him centre-stage – as happens in the remake – is to dissipate his nightmarish qualities and turn him into a cliché.

As Freddy, Englund and his make-up team presented a genuinely terrifying presence, disturbing precisely because we could see human beneath the horror. Here, however, the sharp-fingered one is more monster than man, and so it's easier to dismiss him as a figment of the director's imagination.

Now Showing...

Four Lions (15)

Suicide bomber comedy involving a farcical troop of north-English jihadis plotting to bring down western civilisation. Chris Morris' film debut is funny in places, but is let down by clunky attempts to portray the serious consequences of the bombers' murderous plot.

The Disappearance of Alice Creed (18)

A young woman is kidnapped and held to ransom by two ex-jailbirds before the plot goes twisty turny. The kind of intense, one-setting, three-hander Hitchcock would have revelled in, this starts strongly but loses a couple of wheels and skids off the track.

Psycho (15)

Rerelease of the third greatest ever Hitchcock film – just behind Vertigo and North by Northwest. Discuss. Love the ingenious way we're led down one genre route – the thriller – before a screeching U-turn into out-and-out horror.

Date Night (15)

Finally a quality date film for date night that is not sentimental or unfunny. Steve Carell and Tina Fey are superb as a boring couple whose "date night" turns into an orgy of violence and hilarity.

My O my – that sure was a tasty Thai selection...

The Gannets

O's Thai Café, 10 Topsfield Parade, Crouch End
020 8348 6898

BRAVING icy winds and torrential rain to make it O's Thai Cafe, Gutsy Gannet and I needed something special to make our outing thoroughly worthwhile.

Thankfully we weren't disappointed with this simple but authentic eatery. O's gentle atmosphere, white walls, light-coloured tables and chairs and raised dining area were a haven from the London spring weather and we were soon settled at our table by a friendly and attentive waiter.

We gannets both opted for the three-course set menu (£14.95 per person) from which we could choose a variety of options.

Gutsy chose Thai fishcakes which were, as is so often the case with Thai restaurants, a little oily and chewy, but she still gobbled them up with relish. However, more impressive were my mixed starters. They included a generous helping of chicken satay, spring rolls, prawn toast, fishcakes chicken and fish balls.

They were all accompanied by authentic dips – sweet chilli and satay – and prawn crackers which all went down a treat. It was certainly filling a hole and I wondered whether I would have room to cram in my main.

I soon found out when the waiter quickly brought forth my King Prawn Pad Nam Prik Pao – a generous serving of king prawns, vegetables and tofu stir-fried and served in a curry paste broth with lime leaves.

Accompanied by rice, this spicy dish tasted fresh with just the right amount of bite.

The beautiful chunky vegetables had a perfect crunch and the chef didn't scrimp on the king prawns.

Gutsy's tofu Pad Thai was equally satisfying and she was pleased to find the peanuts, sugar and Thai spices were authentically put to the side of her dish so she could add to taste.

Finally, we just about managed to cram in desserts. Vanilla ice-cream and tropical fruit the perfect way for me to end my meal, with Gutsy opting for sticky coconut and banana rice wrapped in banana leaf. It left Gutsy so impressed, she raved about it all the way home.

Omega Lettings wins Haringey Contract offering 3 Year Guaranteed Rents

Omega Lettings are proud to announce our new 3 year guaranteed rental scheme set up in partnership with the London Borough of Haringey. Following a successful tender process, Omega Lettings now require in excess of 200 properties within Haringey and 2.5 miles in the boroughs of Enfield, Barnet, Islington, Hackney and Waltham Forest within the next 3 months.

Given this uncertain environment, Omega Lettings appreciate that landlords are looking for as much security as possible when it comes to letting out their properties. This security can be found through innovative schemes allowing councils – in partnership with leasing providers such as Omega Lettings – to provide quality accommodation to people who have lost their homes. It should also provide landlords with long-term tenants and peace of mind as the scheme guarantees a rental income for three years.

Private Sector Leasing schemes are now attracting a number of private sector landlords due to the guaranteed rental income, with no voids, for three years and no agency fees. ### BTC Lettings market reviews:

- With not many property owners wanting to sell in this market, there is an overspill of properties to let, here at BTC we have over 200 properties to let
  - We are letting 1-3 properties a day - up to 50 a month, i.e. ONLY THE BEST SURVIVE!
  - With hunting tenants having sooooo much choice, one thing is clear and very important. There is just too much competition, if you are thinking of letting your property, the condition/decoration will have to be of high standard, (laminare flooring would be a good tip!).
  - Apart from poor condition, you may particularly struggle to find tenants if the property is above commercial property or in a high rise block.
  - Landlords accepting tenants on housing benefit are achieving higher rent.
  - Apart from gas safety certificate, all newly let properties must have an EPC certificate (Energy performance certificate).
- If you have any more questions/queries relating to letting your property or current letting market, please call us on 020 8889 7474

SEASON ENDS WITH DEFEAT

By Lee Husson

TOTTENHAM rounded off a memorable Premier League campaign with a shock defeat at relegated Burnley on Sunday as they threw away a two-goal lead to slump to a 4-2 defeat.

Spurs, who needed a win to be in with a chance of overhauling rivals Arsenal in third, looked on course to keep the pressure on their north London neighbours as goals from Gareth Bale and a stunner from Luka Modric put them in command.

But with Arsenal leading 3-0 over Fulham at the time, Harry Redknapp's side knew third was out of the question, and a remarkable comeback from the Championship-bound Claret's ended the season on a slight dampener.

Redknapp spoke of his disappointment after the full-time whistle, but nonetheless it has been a season to savour at White Hart Lane, with Spurs securing fourth and Champions League football next term should they can make it through the qualifying round.

"I'm bitterly disappointed. At 2-0 it wasn't even a game and you couldn't see any way we wouldn't go on and win the game comfortably," the manager said.

"But they got a goal back and in the second half they were excellent.

"They ran all over us at times, and we really were a shadow of ourselves.

"We've had a great season, I've been delighted with the performances during the year, but you always want to win – I didn't come here just to have a jolly up."

Redknapp will now turn his attention to strengthening his squad for next season, although the boss said he would be satisfied with just one big-name signing if they can help push the club on to "another level".

"It's difficult to improve this squad, we've got good options everywhere," he explained.

"But if we could find a really special player – someone who could take the team to another level like the way Fernando Torres did to Liverpool – then we will try to do that."

Season to savour: Redknapp has led Spurs to their best Premier League finish

North Mid kick off with victory

NORTH MIDDLESEX began their campaign in Division Two of the Middlesex County Cricket League in fine style on Saturday by easing to a seven-wicket win at home to Kenton.

Spinners Nick Packard and Jaron Semper took three wickets each as the visitors were bowled out for just 121, before North Middlesex cruised to 122-3 in reply.

Hornsey also got off to a winning start as they eased a five-wicket victory at home to Barnes in Division Three, reaching 164-5 in reply to Barnes' 161.

However, other Division Three action saw Highgate and North London both slump to comprehensive defeats – at the hands of Indian Gymkhana and Ickenham respectively.

Batting first, Highgate needed a solid last-wicket stand between Andrew Browne (17 not out) and Tony Duckett (18) to bring any respectability to their score as they were dismissed for 102. Browne took two wickets when Indian Gymkhana replied, but he could not prevent the visitors from easing to 103-3.

And North London had no answer to Troy Scanlons' all-round excellence as they were beaten by 113 runs at Ickenham.

Scanlon top-scored with 60 not out as the hosts amassed 226-9 batting first, and then took 5-26 as North London could only make 113 in reply. David Gibson chipped in with 4-13.

North Middlesex go to Harrow on Saturday, while Highgate visit Barnet Bs and North London entertain Hornsey.
